Ireland's hospitality and the friendliness of its people are well-known around the world. Dublin, the lively and exuberant Irish capital on the east coast of the island combines tradition and modernism, culture and commerce in a unique, charming and light manner

Under the guidance of our native-speaking counsellors, campers use their new language skills throughout the day, both during instruction as well as in the afternoon and evening activities.

EXCITING AND MOTIVATING INSTRUCTION

The participants at our camps don't only learn during the morning lessons made up of lively components such as interviews and role plays, they are also encouraged to put the language they have learnt into practice during their leisure time.

Participants have the opportunity to learn a foreign language, take part in exciting activities and make new friends, whilst also being on holiday. At the same time, they're laying the foundations for improving their performance in school the following year, almost without realizing it.

LEARNING BY SPEAKING

As well as having lots of fun, children return home with improved knowledge of the foreign language and enhanced motivation. We know from experience that participants achieve significant progress in their learning and that their self-confidence improves, so the benefits are two-fold.
