CHOICES FURTHER EDUCATION PROGRAMMES

Choices International offer both A-Level (ONLINE) and BTEC L3 qualifications. These are the primary UK qualifications for entry into UK and international Higher Education. Both options are summarised below.

ONLINE A-LEVELS

At Choices International we recognise the need to adapt to a modern world and the latest advances in education that it brings. That is why with our online A-Level courses, we are able to offer you an exciting and dynamically innovative way to study.

A-levels are the traditional qualifications that are offered by schools and colleges for students aged between 16 and 19. Short for Advanced Level, A-levels come after GCSEs. They usually focus on academic subjects, compared to vocational qualifications like BTECs and NVQs, which are more practical. There are more than 40 different A-level subjects on offer – some will be subjects that you studied at GCSE and others may be new. You will typically need a minimum of 3 A Levels to enter a UK or international university. A-levels are highly valued by employers and universities therefore they can open up many doors to further education and careers.

BTEC

BTEC stands for the Business and Technology Education Council. BTECs are specialist work-related qualifications. They combine practical learning with subject and theory content. Choices offer BTEC at Level 3, either alongside other academic qualifications or as part of a wider programme (such as an apprenticeship). You can also study a BTEC as a stand-alone course.

In order to progress to a university degree, you will need to achieve either a BTEC L3 Diploma plus an additional A-Level or a L3 Extended Diploma. Choices' education partners offer BTEC specialisation in Business.

BTEC & A-LEVELS COMPARISON

Although they are often compared with A Levels, there are varying levels of BTECs. Here's the breakdown:

- Level 3 BTEC Diploma – equivalent to 2 A-Levels
- Level 3 BTEC Extended Diploma – equivalent to 3 A-Levels

On the whole, BTECs tend to be more vocational and practical, which may suit both your learning style and what you want to do after you finish your studies. Subjects such as Business Studies, and Information Technology tend to be popular BTEC subjects. Meanwhile, A-Levels provide you with more traditional subjects, such as English, Maths, History and so on.

You can study a combination of BTECs and A-Levels. Most universities will require you to have three A Levels, but of course you can choose to study more.

Another big difference is that A-Levels are geared towards big exams at the end of two years of studying, whereas BTECs are continually assessed throughout the course through coursework and practical projects. While A-Levels are graded A*-E, BTECs are awarded with Pass, Merit or Distinction.

Some universities will be happy with just one BTEC (which is equivalent to 3 A-Levels), while others will require you to have at least one A Level alongside your BTEC. All you need to do is check the course you're thinking of applying for to see what the entry requirements are. You may also need to ask the university you're applying to (or UCAS) which grade (pass/merit/distinction) is required from your BTEC, if they only list A-Level grades.

If you choose to study only one BTEC in a particular subject, it's very likely that the courses you can apply for at university will be restricted to the same or similar kind of subject. This is great if you know in advance exactly what you want to do, but it doesn't leave much room for changing your mind, so it's something to consider when thinking about your options.

WHY MANCHESTER?

Manchester, the cradle of the Manchester United and Manchester City Premier League teams!

The 'so called' capital of the North, is a leading UK study destination, offering the advantages of a vibrant, up-and-coming city whilst at the same time being close to some of the most beautiful scenery in England. Manchester combines the sophistication and energy of a thriving metropolis with easy access to the stunning scenery of the Lake District and Wales. With two national parks on its doorstep - the Peak District and the Yorkshire Dales - it is the ideal place to learn English whilst experiencing both city and rural life.

Not only was Manchester voted the 'Best UK City to Live In' by the Global Liveability Survey in 2013, it also features in the 'World's Top 10 Friendliest Cities' as chosen by users of international travel guide, Rough Guides, and is the only UK city to be listed in the 'Top 10 Best Cities for 2016' by Lonely Planet.

With 3 major universities in the city, you will find a large international student population in Manchester, and a city whose bars and restaurants reflect its cultural diversity: sample the food of Chinatown, or try a spot of salsa dancing in a Latin-style café! Whether you are interested in visiting Manchester United's football ground, attending a classical concert performed by the Hallé Orchestra, having a history lesson at one of Manchester's museums, visiting the world's oldest public library, or simply wanting to enjoy superb shopping, you will not be disappointed.
